EMERGENCY DECLARED - WATER RATIONED

West Church Women Enjoy Picnic

LOOKS GOOD. Womenfolk of the West Parish Church gathered for an annual picnic at the Log Cabin in the Phillips Academy Sanctuary.

Only Domestic Use Allowed, But Farmers May Irrigate; Law Lists Severe Penalties

Sweeping water restrictions, drastically curtailing the use of town water, have been imposed by the BPW.

The Board took action Monday night, after receiving a letter from the State Department of Public Health declaring that an emergency exists here.

Under the law, town officials may now shut off the water - at meter or curb - at any home where offenses against the restrictions take place. Or the officials may use "other means" to punish violators.

The restrictions forbid:

Any lawn watering;
Any use of water-cooled air conditioners;
Any car washing, by individuals filling stations or garages, except for new cars or trucks prior to sale;

Any swimming pool use.
Residents may water their private vegetable gardens - but only if they do so by hand. No one

RESIDENTS COOPERATING; POLICE CANVASS TOWN

At presstime, Wednesday, Andover Police reported generally good cooperation from residents as they were told about the watering ban.

Tuesday night was normally a watering night east of Route 28 - thus officers were kept busy telling residents about the new restrictions and asking them to shut the water off.

It was learned that several business houses, using water-cooled air conditioners, have asked BPW members for a respite from the ban until other arrangements can be made. Some, owning units which use the same water over and over, have asked special permission to continue using them. There had been no action by the BPW at a late hour Wednesday.

Priscilla Reynolds Left Yesterday For Start Of Exciting European Trip

Looking and feeling like the well-known American emissary she is, Miss Priscilla Reynolds, Andover's proud Junior Red Cross delegate to an international study visit program in Europe this summer, left Logan Airport yesterday for Washington D.C., where she will undergo a two-day "orientation period" before embarking on the M.S. Augustus from New York Saturday, June 22.

Miss Reynolds, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Reynolds, 129 Summer st., has, in fact, been orienting herself ever since her thrilling appointment as delegate several months ago. She chose the Red Cross as the subject for her school "research paper", read and digested two imposing books - one Secretary Dulles' "History of the American

It is surprising that there are still people who fear to go to their Dentist regularly. They are afraid that he may possibly discover a new cavity that needs filling.

They forget that neglecting to take care of one cavity, always results in considerable pain later.

Your Dentist can prescribe the proper vitamins or anti-biotics that will help you to keep your teeth longer.

Should he suggest any particular dental-aid, we will be glad to follow his instructions exactly.

Scholarships Given At Graduation

It was a warm night for caps and gowns last Friday when the last Punchard High School graduating class stepped forward to receive their diplomas. But with cool, pleased expressions 96 seniors accepted their hard-earned "sheepskins" before a near-capacity auditorium of parents, relatives and friends.

Five large electric fans had been strategically placed in Memorial Hall, which greatly relieved the heat that had settled throughout the hot day.

The impressive awarding of diplomas was done by the Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor of Red Cross" and the other entitled "A Man Born To Live," which is the life story of Henry Dunant, Red Cross founder. She knows and can quote the Red Cross Constitution and has in the past several weeks thoroughly perused all of the pamphlets and one main booklet, "What Should I Know When I Travel Abroad", sent her by the National Red Cross headquarters.

Appropriate dress for Junior Red Cross delegates abroad is a subject not left to guess-work or fancy by the organization. According to specifications, no delegate may appear in shorts except at a training center or on board ship. Skirts at all times, hats, gloves and hosiery are stated requirements for everyday attire.

Day-to-Day Schedule

Sailing June 22, Priscilla will be at sea until July 1, arriving at 7 a.m. in Naples and from there on the busy whirl starts with exciting appointments in all points of Europe with nary a breather until she embarks with her fellow Red Cross travelers at Cannes, Aug. 9, due back in New York Aug. 20.

The first point upon landing is the Grand Hotel de Londres, followed by a tour of Naples, July 3 and 4 will feature a two-day excursion to Pompei, Amalfi, Sorrento and Capri, staying the night at Hotel Victoria in Sorrento. July 5, Hotel Plaza in Rome and a whole day tour of Rome. The day of the sixth has been arranged by Italian Red Cross to include a visit to Preventorium at Fara Sabina. More of Rome July 7 and 8 and on to Florence until July 13.

They will make the two-day bus trip to Florence via Assisi, Perugia, Sienna and hill country, staying at Hotel Brufani Palace in Perugia on the 9th.

July 14 will find the delegation taking the "Alpen-Express" to Innsbruck. Arriving at 7:55 p.m., they will stay at Hotel Europa and the 15th will make a tour of Innsbruck. To Chiensee by bus July 16, where at the Chiensee Recreation Area the American Junior Red Cross has its training center. Here they will stay until July 26, leaving by bus for Munich for sightseeing in Munich, and a flight to Zurich and on to Geneva.

Geneva will be the next point of interest July 27 until Aug. 3, then on to Paris Aug. 4 and to the Hotel Astor. There will be church attendance, a half day tour of modern Paris, a tour of historic Paris and many other interesting activities to be planned by the adult leaders while there. Aug. 7 they leave for Cannes and trip to Menton, Monte Carlo and Nice. They will stay at the Hotel Martinez up until the time they sail for New York.

Miss Reynolds has promised to write to the Editor of the Townsman on several occasions, so that readers may follow her through the exciting trip.

South Congregational Church and president of the Punchard Free School. Before calling their names he gave a brief and inspiring message to the class, urging each graduate to seek out work for himself or herself wherein he or she might find the greatest degree of happiness and fulfillment throughout all their years in life.

Headmaster Lindsay J. March presented the prizes and Superintendent Edward I. Erickson the scholarships. First on the list was in recognition of next year's leader — the Harvard Club Prize Book to the junior boy in the college preparatory group who has the highest average for the year. It was given to Alan Brown.

The Conroy Prizes of $5 and $3 for the best ex-tempore essays, given by the late Dr. Edward C. Conroy, former chairman of the school committee, went to Davida Morin and Grace Klein, respectively.

The American Legion Post 8 Prize for excellence in the study of the Constitution of the United States had a cash value of $5 and went to Davida Morin.

The William A. Doherty (Class of 1925) $5 prize for the member of the senior class who in the judgment of the headmaster has best exemplified the ideals of character and unselfishness in the furtherance of the interest of the school, went to Franklin L. Scott.

The Bausch and Lomb honorary award for excellence in Science was given to Stuart Troop. Two prizes, one of $15 and one of $10 for excellence in mathematics, given to members of the senior class in memory of Lieutenant Commander Allan C. Edmonds, went to Valedictorian Raymond Paolino and Salutatorian James M. Winters.

A prize of $5 by the Women's Auxiliary to Andover Post 8, American Legion, to that girl in the senior class who has, on her own initiative, done the most for her class, was awarded to Mary Lynne Cotter. Another prize of $5 offered by the Auxiliary to the Senior boy who has earned two varsity letters and stands highest in that group in scholarship and citizenship was given to Franklin L. Scott.

The Andover Male Choir prize given for excellence in Music had a valuation of $10 — $5 awarded to Ralph Buschmann and $5 to Deanna Hudgins.

The Rafton Science Prizes for excellence in scientific method of thinking were $15 to Christa Hahnenstein, $10 to Grace Klein and $5 to Gerald Fleischli.

Gerald Fleischli also received the Mathematics Club prize to the author of the best paper of those submitted by contestants from Punchard.

Scholarship Prizes

The top scholarship award went to Valedictorian Raymond Paolino. It was the Hinchcliffe Scholarship of $450, awarded to a deserving student of the graduating class who has received a diploma and is anxious to pursue his studies in a higher institution of learning or in a professional school. The selection is made by the Trustees of the Punchard Free School with the approval of the Headmaster.

The $200 Andover Public School Teachers' Association Scholarship was given to Davida Morin as the graduating senior who is planning to further her education to prepare herself for a teaching career. Davida will go to the University of New Hampshire.

ably children of members of the club, who plan to further their education, went to Elizabeth Caswell and James Winters. "Betsy" will go to a school of nursing — St. Luke's Hospital, N.Y.; and Salutatorian Winters will enter the United States Military Academy.

The Nathan C. Hamblin Memorial Scholarship of $100 given by the Alumni Association by its executive board on recommendation of the Punchard faculty, based on a consideration of need, scholarship and school citizenship was given to Allen Ober.

Four $100 scholarships are offered by the Andover Boosters Club annually to two boys and two girls of the graduating class who best satisfy the following qualifications: Worthy qualities of leadership or character as evidenced by participation in the social and extra-curricular activities of the school; satisfactory academic record; need for financial aid in continuing with further education. They were awarded to Jane Hall, Phyllis Miles, William McCullom and Ralph Buschmann.

The Andover Grange 183 Patron of Husbandry Scholarship, to be given to a deserving graduate desirous of furthering his or her education in the field of agriculture, homemaking, nursing or teaching, was awarded to Sandra Ritchie. It carried a value of $57.75. Sandra will go to the University of Massachusetts.

The Chapin and Gutterson Scholarships of $90, awarded to a member of the graduating class who is planning to further her education at a higher institution, was given to Lynne Cotter, who will go to the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School. She also received the Service Club Scholarship of $100 as its outstanding member. The award indicates a high quality of citizenship, initiative, responsibility, courtesy and cooperation.

Davida Morin was awarded the $70 Draper and Alice M. Bell Scholarship and the $200 scholarship of the Boxford American Legion Post No. 379 of Boxford. The former is given to a girl graduate planning to further her education and the latter to the Boxford senior whose scholastic record is the most outstanding. Seniors in all schools attended by Boxford pupils are considered for this award.

The Trustees of the Art Scholarship Fund of the November Club present a special award of $25 in recognition of outstanding work in the Creative Art Course in Punchard. This was awarded to Susan Bird.

The Varsity Club Scholarship of $100 to help some deserving student-athlete further his or her education was given to David Belka.

She also received the Service Club Scholarship of $100 as its outstanding member. The award indicates a high quality of citizenship, initiative, responsibility, courtesy and cooperation.

David Morin was awarded the $70 Draper and Alice M. B. Scholarship and the $200 scholarship of the Boxford American Legion Post No. 379 of Boxford. The former is given to a girl graduate planning to further her education and the latter to the Boxford senior whose scholastic record is the most outstanding. Seniors in all schools attended by Boxford pupils are considered for this award.

The Trustees of the Art Scholarship Fund of the November Club present a special award of $25 in recognition of outstanding work in the Creative Art Course in Punchard. This was awarded to Susan Bird.

The Varsity Club Scholarship of $100 to help some deserving student-athlete further his or her education was given to David Belka.

MRS. FRANCIS B. DOWNS

Coffin, daughter of Mrs. Fletcher
Barker Coffin of Rose Cottage,
Chestnut st. and the Rev. Francis Belsterling Downs, son of the late Charles D. Downs and Gertrude Pratt Howell Downs of Lowell, which took place at a ten-thirty morning service Monday, June 17
in St. Anne's Episcopal Church, Lowell, of which the bridegroom is rector.

The officiating clergymen were the Rev. Lewis Coffin of Wolfe-boro, N.H., brother of the bride and the Rt. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes Jr., Bishop of Massachusetts, the latter celebrant at the Holy Communion.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Burton S. Flagg of School st., wore a lovely floor-length gown of fine Chantilly lace, the neckline decorated with seed pearls and with a tight bodice and long sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was of silk illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Her matron-of-honor, Mrs. Lewis
E. Coffin of Wolfeboro, wore a ballerina-length dress of pale green organza and she carried pink carnations.

Mrs. Coffin, mother of the bride, wore a lovely beige silk suit and flowered hat.

Charles Broome Tertius Downs was best man for his father and the ushers were Robert Carmichael, Dr. Ernest H. Latham, Arthur C.
Dawes and James G. MacGowan, all of Lowell.

Mrs. Downs' late father, Dr.
Fletcher Coffin, was professor at Lake Forest College in Illinois.

She is a graduate of Ferry Hall of Lake Forest and of Radcliffe College in Cambridge and had, up 'till June of this year, been a member of the faculty of Abbot Academy.

The Rev. Mr. Downs received his education at the Phillips
Brooks School in Philadelphia, the University of Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia Divinity School. He is a former rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Providence, R.I.

After a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, the bridal couple will be "at home" Sept. 1 at 8 Kirk st.,
Lowell.

HAMPTON - SHAW

The South Congregational Church was the setting Monday afternoon, when Miss Arianna
Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Clinton David Shaw of Wildwood
rd. became the bride of Aubrey
Otis Hampton Jr., son of the late
Dr. Aubrey Otis Hampton and Mrs.
Hampton of Durham and Weare,
N.H. The Rev. Frederick B. Noss officiated at the four o'clock ceremony.

Before the service Mrs. Charles J. McCartin of Lawrence, aunt of the bridegroom, sang "Oh, Perfect Love." Lou Steigler, organist, accompanied her. The front of the church was decorated with pale pink peonies, stock and snap dragons.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a princess line dress of ivory silk organdy. It featured a scoop neckline of soft bias folds with trim of imported Swiss organdy, pearls and paillettes. A matching organdy headpiece held her veil and she carried a cascade arrangement of stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Paul A. Hood of Holt rd., sister of the bride, attended as

Honor Addresses At Punchard High Graduation

JAMES WINTERS

Salutatory

By James Winters.

It is indeed a privilege for me to welcome you to the graduation exercises of the Punchard High School Class of 1957.

Our primary feeling today should be one of gratitude to all who have helped us reach this major milestone in our lives. We thank God for our country, where we have freedom to live our own lives and to think our own thoughts; we thank Him for the power of intellect to develop these thoughts, to acquire knowledge — and, we hope, a little wisdom — to guide us through the years to come.

We should like to thank our parents who have shared our moments of success and failure, our joys and our sorrows, throughout our school years — our parents, who have given us their never-failing patience, their guidance, their understanding affection, their encouragement. How can we ever repay them?

We thank our teachers for their tireless efforts to give us an education of which we can well be proud. May it enrich us a hundred fold as we go through life, and may our achievements bring satisfaction to those who have helped us in our preparation.

Others, who are identified with our education and to whom we are indebted, are the members of the School Committee, the Punchard Trustees, the administrative staff of the schools and finally to all the people of Andover, who play a vital role in providing the facilities for our training.

STEPPING STONES

What is ambition? In my opinion, ambition is not only the desire to forge ahead; it is also the acceptance of the hard work and tireless efforts that accompany the impulse. If one's ambition consisted only of wishful thinking, his goals could have never been reached.

Tonight, we reach one of these goals — the diploma. The diploma carries with it the recognition of the minor goals which we have achieved and the work we have done throughout the past twelve years.

When we were younger, ambition and goals occupied a quite prominent, but rather nebulous place in our thinking. As we grew older, many of our aims, still not clearly defined, were often intangible; but the desire to succeed prevailed. Slowly, success began to play a more important part in our lives. The principal function of education, the orderly and productive channels for directing mental growth, began to have its effect. With each passing school year, we became increasingly conscious of the world around us, of its potentialities, pitfalls and triumphs.

The diploma we receive tonight exemplified tangible progress in our lives. It makes us realize that each step we accomplish is not final, but merely a "stepping stone" to higher opportunities. Just as our minor achievements of the past have helped us to attain this diploma, the diploma will lead us on to greater progress. Let it be like a stream, joining with other rivulets to form a river; and that river will flow until it reaches its terminal, the ocean. May our "river" flow on with fresh, clean ideas and with robust ambition, until we reach the ultimate destiny and fulfill the purpose of our individual lives.

Valedictory

THE CHALLENGE OF REALITY

By Raymond Paolino

Today we stand at the crossroads of our lives. Doors of opportunity stand before us and we need only to knock and they shall be opened. These doors may lead to careers in science, business, education, or religion, to mention only a few possibilities. Whatever door we enter, whatever road we travel, we can be sure that our years at Punchard have prepared us very adequately for the future. Knowing that we were to be the last class to graduate from Punchard has prompted us to look back upon its past, to see what have been the dominant factors in its success down through the years. We can easily see how the growth of Punchard has paralleled the growth of public education in America. We realize that the past has had a great influence upon the present, and that we can learn much from it, both from its successes and from its failures. We can see the ideals that have sustained us and the mistakes that have hindered us. The inscription on the Archives Building in Washington reads: "The past is prologue", but as one Washington cab driver so eloquently explained, "That means you ain't seen nothing yet."

What we are concerned with now are the present and the future. As the high school students of Andover move to a new building, it is the new building that is important, not the old. What is more important is that those ideals which strengthened the foundation of the old are revitalized, and made a part of the new; and that the mistakes and outmoded practices which weakened the old are not repeated in the new. As we become active members of this community, we will make it our duty, as you, I am sure, will make it yours, to see that the new high school has even stronger foundation than the old. As we become active citizens of this nation, we can be proud of our heritage. We can be proud of our great abundance and of our great power in the family of nations. But let us not be blinded by this pride; let us not look at the world through those rose-tinted glasses that are becoming all too popular today. Let us realize that we are living in an age of unrest from which we cannot isolate ourselves. On the other side of this ever-shrinking world, hundreds of millions of people will go to bed hungry tonight. These people are hungry and thirsting not only for the material necessities of life, but also for those same intangibles that are part of our constitutional heritage, "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Even in our own country, despite the great progress we have made, there are still people who are ill-housed, ill-clothed, and ill-fed; and there are 13 million people who belong to a race which is denied equality of rights and opportunity. Can we be complacent in the midst of this? Can we be like Nero and fiddle while the world burns with the fires of rebellion — rebellion against poverty; rebellion against ignorance; and rebellion against oppression? The world is crying for new ideas, for leadership, for human initiative. The world is crying for men who have the courage to gamble with destiny, who are not afraid to try something new. If this generation can produce men and women with courage like that of our early pioneers when they braved the unknown hazards of the wilderness in search of a better way of life, then we can be confident that this generation will shape a future in which the rebellious masses of the world, in their struggle toward human dignity, will seize as their own not the banner and stake, the torch of liberty.

VALEDICTORY

Classmates:

"Before we leave these covered halls to venture into the world and to go our separate ways we should pause and say goodbye to Punchard. In bidding farewell, I wish also to say 'Thank you' for some of the lasting memories of youth, and the experiences that have helped to shape our destinies. For the memories of our years at Punchard may fade, as all things have a way of fading, but the years will exercise a profound influence upon our lives that will be difficult for us to comprehend. So, in truth, we say 'Goodbye' to only the physical structure of this building, for the spirit of Punchard will linger with us. And we hope that this spirit, in a broader sense, that the building remains here, its name is forgotten, the spirit transferred to the new school to grow and be a dynamic force in the future of Andover."

Honor Essay

OUR DATE WITH THE WORLD

By Mary L. Cotter

We have a date with the world. We, of this graduating class, have an appointment with the future, with careers, with civic duties, with marriage, with children.

How well Punchard has prepared us for these ventures, how well it has provided a sound basis for our life through education, which is in a large sense, the development not only of our mental faculties, but of our character and our capacity as well. Through the study, the student is prepared for his special role in society, college, job, or course of training. Through extra-curricular activities the student is fitted to the best use of his selected talents, further, to be a worthwhile citizen.

The study of mathematics helps correct reasoning and encourages orderly process. History promotes the understanding of the patterns of the past society, since these patterns are out of man's recorded experience of the past. Understanding the present will, in turn, make us recognize the patterns of the future. Literature, that great body of values — a measure of human achievement in every age, each study has its own value — its own fruit.

Beyond the formal classroom, the related activities, the Student Club has given students the opportunity to cooperate with neighbors in community projects. Athletics have exemplified work and fair play. Student government has demonstrated the maturity of the democratic process. Band has fostered national pride in some and given pleasure to all. And, the school library has not only provided materials for research, but has taught the use of leisure time. All these activities have had the advantage of promoting harmonious social relations.

No one of these studies, however, is sufficient. An individual concentration would be mortal to the purpose. Suppose, for example, a student who forgoes extra-curricular activities for a balance. We would have a

VALEDICTORY

Glassmates:
"Before we leave these covered halls to venture into the world and to go our separate ways we should pause and say goodbye to Punchard. In bidding farewell, I wish also to say 'thank you' to the experiences that have shaped our destinies. For the memories of our years at Punchard may fade, as all things have a way of fading, these years will exercise a profound influence upon our lives that will be difficult for us to comprehend at this time. So, in truth, we say goodbye not only to the physical structure of this building, for the spirit of Punchard will linger with us. And we hope that this spirit, in a broader sense, that the building remains, for its name is forgotten, the spirit transferred to the new school, to grow and be a dynamic force in the future of Andover."

Honor essayists, Davida Morin and Lynne Cotter, at Punchard graduation June 14.

OUR DATE WITH THE WORLD

By Mary L. Cotter

We have a date with the world. We, of this graduating class, have an appointment with the future. We are to live with careers, with marriage, with children. How well Punchard has prepared us for these ventures. It has provided a sound basis for our life through education, and in a large sense, the development of our mental and physical capacities as well. Through our studies, the student is prepared for his special role in society, college, job, or course of training. Through extra-curricular activities the student is fitted to make the best use of his selected field of study, to be a worthwhile citizen.

The study of mathematics helps correct reasoning and encourages orderly process. History promotes the understanding of the patterns of the past, society, since these patterns are out of man's recorded experience. A brief review of Andover's educational system, however, is not a mere delineation of historical facts is dull and tiresome, for it is familiar with the names of such persons as Harriet Beecher Stowe, Samuel Smith and Wendell Holmes occupy in the history. It is not a single date, or incident, or person which has made Andover what it is today, but the contributions of the whole pattern. What I am to do tonight, therefore, is to be interpreted in the light of their contribution.

It is interesting to note that, in the 54 year period following the incorporation of Andover, certain townspeople recognized the need for the education of the youth of the community and took the necessary steps toward establishing private schools for instruction. In 1700, the town incorporated with a law of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, which required a school of this type for each community of one hundred families or more, for the purpose of preparing boys for college. These institutions expanded with the industrial growth of the community.

The esteem for learning in the Northern Colonies was extremely great as Edmund Burke pointed out in 1775; in fact, the growth of New England education far exceeded that required by law. Throughout the period of westward expansion in the early portion of the nineteenth century, these institutions for learning were rapidly increasing and were bringing to New England an academic superiority which has been maintained to the present day.

The time was ripe for the founding of a system of secondary education in Andover. The will of an eminent businessman, Benjamin H. Punchard, provided a sum of $50,000 for the construction and maintenance of a Free School. The trustees whom he had designated finally decided that the new school should continue instruction beyond the grammar school level.

Mr. Punchard had traveled extensively throughout this country and Europe, taking especial note of each one's secondary schools, colleges, and universities; and undoubtedly, it was through this contact, and through the fact that, at an early age, he was forced to give up his studies, that Benjamin Punchard conceived the idea of establishing some type of institution for furthering education in Andover.

That first week in September 1856 was of momentous importance to the town, for it saw the completion, dedication and opening of the Punchard Free School, which was to exert a stabilizing influence upon the common schools by alleviating their crowded conditions and providing a curriculum corresponding to that of the others. Although checked from time to time, first by fire then by the inadequacy of the Punchard fund, academic advancement progressed at a rapid pace. Changes in the philosophy of the world have necessitated changes in the principles of education and an expansion of the curriculum to include both academic and vocational training as well as recreational opportunities.

The success and achievement of the Andover School system have depended largely upon the combined efforts of the townspeople, the School Committee, the Punchard Trustees, the administrators and instructors of the School Department; the foundations of the system have remained unshaken by personal disputes or changes in world policies. It may be compared with that House which was built upon a rock and which all the tides of time could not dislodge.

Will Sell Bonds For South School

Town Treasurer Anna Greeley will offer $800,000 worth of 20-year bonds for sale to finance the South School.

A decision to sell the bonds now, rather than splitting the issue in hopes of getting a lower interest rate later, was reached after a lengthy conference with bankers, Finance Committee members and the Selectmen.

Miss Greeley, through the Merchants National Bank of Boston, will offer the bonds — although not in the amount originally specified at town meeting.

On the advice of School Building Committee members, the bond issue will be advertised at $800,000 — a reduction of $85,000 from the figure voted by town meeting. The estimated saving came from a construction bid that was $65,000 lower than estimated. An approximate saving of $5,000 in the architect's fee resulted. With a contingency fund of $70,000 remaining to "act as a cushion", the Committee felt $800,000 would be a good bond figure, rather than pay interest on the larger amount.

The bankers felt that approximately 3.25 to 3.5 percent would be a fair interest rate — considerably higher than the high school rate just over two percent two years ago. Rates have gone up considerably, they explained, and may go up even higher in the coming months. The bankers recommended selling the bonds now instead of gambling on future rates. Money obtained now will be invested in treasury bills, with the earned interest expected to be paid during the time the full amount is invested.

Alice Jenkins Feted By Friends To Celebrate Her 90th Birthday

Achieving her 90th year in a gay, celebrant mood, with many of her friends gathered about her to pay her honor, Miss Alice Jenkins was hostess June 11 at a tea at her home, 39 School st.

Among her guests were her brother, Philip Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins of So. Portland, Me.; Mrs. William Cook of New Jersey, Mrs. Elen Harvey of Greenfield and Mrs. David Robinson, formerly Miss Virginia Morgan of Andover, now of Connecticut, Mrs. Robinson, who has been the harpist in the San Francisco Symphony orchestra, brought her harp with her for the occasion and entertained the group with some of Miss Jenkins' favorite musical selections.

Other guests, all members of the Woman's Guild of Christ Church, who meet together once yearly, included Mrs. Ralph Berry, Mrs. Horace Bodwell, Mrs. Granville Clark, Mrs. Fay Elliott, Mrs. Lillian Howe, Mrs. Henry Miller, Mrs. Harry Noyes, Mrs. Anna Paddock and Miss Emma Gracole.

A beautiful birthday cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Bodwell and holding a fair percentage of 90 candles, was cut and served at the tea table. Mrs. Howe poured.

Mrs. Miller, who has made her home at 33 Florence st., is leaving shortly to make her permanent home in Florida. During the afternoon she was presented a "farewell gift" of a combination prayer book and hymnal.

THE TOWNSMAN recalls Miss Jenkins' many civic interests during earlier years in Andover. As chairman of the Art department of the November Club and during her 35 years active membership in the club she was instrumental in raising and establishing the Art Scholarship fund which has made it possible to give $100 annually to a promising artist graduating from Punchard who intends to pursue creative art.

Born at her parents' home, 39 School st., the daughter of the late E. Kendall and Nancy (nee Jenkins) Jenkins, she has lived her entire 90 years at that address. Both her parents were deceased in the same year, 1925.

A graduate of Abbot Academy in 1886, she traveled abroad frequently as a young woman. Her interest in woman's vote excited the attention of a State senator, who appointed Miss Jenkins' local chairman to organize the movement in Andover. In a day when few young ladies "worked" Miss Jenkins invaded the field as solicitor for women's advertising for a period of 10 years on the Boston Journal.

Red Cross Folks Attended Convention

A most inspiring and fruitful three days was spent by Executive Red Cross Secretary Barbara Loomer in Washington, D.C., the latter part of May attending the National Red Cross Convention. Also attending were Robert Zollner, chairman of the Andover Blood program; Mrs. Leon Field, member of the board and motor service chairman; and Mrs. Roger Whitcomb, member of the Blood Committee and a staff aide.

More than 5,000 Red Cross volunteers and executive workers attended the stimulating 3-day sessions which were tuned to the volunteer and the tremendously important role he and she play in carrying on the work of the National Red Cross.

WATER RESTRICTIONS IMPOSED BY BPW

may use any automatic watering device for that purpose.

Market gardeners — and other farmers with irrigation systems — may use them only from 6 p.m. to midnight.

The Country Club may water its greens during the same hours — but must not water the fairways.

Banned under the Board action is the use of town water for watering shrubbery and new lawns — whatever their cost or condition.

The decision to take swift action, curbing water use in many ways, followed a report that the pond level was 41 inches below normal late Monday afternoon.

It had been down 38 inches last Thursday night, dropped an inch Friday and another two inches over the weekend and until late Monday.

The continued weekend drop was logged despite a decrease in the number of gallons pumped, compared with last Friday.

Engineer Donald Bassett presented pumping figures that showed four million gallons pumped on Friday, June 14 — a watering day west of Route 28 under previous voluntary restrictions. That figure dropped back to 3,250,000 Saturday and even lower, to 2,800,000, Sunday, Bassett pointed out that the residents of the town must have been co-operating because the use of water on allowed days was up considerably over non-watering days.

The Board felt the need, however, of compelling compliance rather than depending on continued voluntary acceptance by the townspeople.

Irrigation Allowed

Some consideration for the market gardeners — and other farmers who irrigate — was shown because members of the Board felt that a flat ban on irrigation would wipe out this year's crops. Bassett suggested eight-hour, rotating shifts, claiming that system worked well two years ago when cooperative restrictions were in force. Board members felt, however, that the 6 to midnight hours would be the best for the town. When Bassett pointed out that many farmers work from dawn to after supper as it is, with the burden of sitting up with an irrigation system becoming too heavy a load, Chairman Allan Flye commented "We're operating in an emergency. We don't want to impose restrictions to sap their livelihood, except that extra hours or work can't enter into it".

The Board discussed asking the Police Department to check those irrigating their fields to insure compliance and also discussed having one of its own men make a check after midnight.

As a side issue, members also felt that farmers who have a reservoir into which they pump town water should not be allowed to pump out of it except from 6 to midnight. And they of course could not pump into the reservoir at any other time. This step was taken because considerable hard feeling might develop if one gardener was seen irrigating during the daytime when others were forced to wait until night.

The Country Club, for which permission was granted to water the greens, has a considerable investment in them Board members felt. For that reason the exception to lawn watering was made.

Enforcement

Enforcement of the restrictions was left rather up in the air Monday night. For whatever the law reads, no decision was reached as to steps that might have to be taken if someone defies the ban. Police were informing homeowners Tuesday and yesterday whenever they saw anyone watering outside. Officers took the persons' names so that, if found watering again, it will be a positive case of non-compliance.

Monday night, Secretary Alex Henderson suggested that the Board lessen the amount of water to a person's home by shutting down the valve at the curb. This would make it impossible to get enough pressure for lawn watering, while maintaining a flow in the house. No action was taken on that idea, however.

This vital section of the law, Chapter 40, Section 41A, reads in part the Board may "restrain the use of water on public or private premises by shutting off the water at the meter or at the curb cock or by other means as the case may be, during a drought, hurricane, conflagration or other disaster when in the opinion of the Department of Public Health an emergency exists".

That the state department does feel an emergency exists was proven by the letter received by the BPW. It read "The Department of Public Health is in receipt of your communication dated June 7, 1957 relative to the shortage of water of the public water supply of the town of Andover. The Department is aware that the safe yield of Haggett's Pond is not sufficient to meet the needs of the water consumers of the town of Andover during dry periods and that investigations are underway for increasing the amount of water available to the town.

"Until new sources of water supply are developed, it will be necessary for your board to place restrictions on the use of water and take all other necessary measures in a strict water conservation program.

"In order to assist your Board in this matter, the Department declares that an emergency exists within the meaning of the law as referred to in General Laws Chapter 40, Section 41A."

The letter was signed by Francis W. Kingsbury, sanitary engineer.

Pomps Pond Begins New Year

It looks like a great season for Pomps Pond! Once again this favorite swimming and recreational spot for Andover residents will open its season, beginning next Monday June 24. To many, during the past week's scorching hot days, Pomps was open but as was announced it would not officially have guards and other personnel on duty until the 24th.

This year anyone entering the area will have to have stickers on their cars to show that they are Andover residents. The stickers must be obtained at the police station and anyone not having the sticker after June 26 will be directed away from the area and to the police station to get one. There is no fee for the stickers.

This week-end the life guards will be at the Pond getting things in order but will not be on official duty until Monday.

Parents may have their swim knowing that the water is bacterially safe. Robert A. W. chairman of the Board of Health has issued a statement verifying this as follows: "The results of the bacterial examination of a sample of water collected from Pomps Pond at the beach, by the Andover Board of Health, show that the water was of suitable quality bacteriologically for swimming."

WILL REMOVE BUILDINGS FROM MAIN STREET SITE

The old Draper Block Main st., for many months empty, will be razed.

Mrs. David Burns, it is understood, has authorized the removal of the building and will announce plans for new structures on the property.

Barbara Loomer President Of Fund Executives

Miss Barbara Loomer, executive secretary of the Andover Red Cross Chapter, was elected president of the United Fund Executives' Group at its June meeting held at the Greater Lawrence

This group meets the second Friday in each month for the purpose of better understanding the functions and operations of each organization embodied in the United Fund.

Miss Mary Virginia Gaines of No. Andover was elected secretary-treasurer. Miss Loomer appointed John Stanton of the M.S.P.C.C., Thomas O'Leary executive secretary of the United Fund and Lois Howard, executive secretary of the Family Service Association to serve on the program committee for the coming year.

The group presented a gift of money to the Girl Scouts for their Camp Maude Eaton rebuilding fund and also presented a gift to Miss Eileen Gattar of the Catholic Charities who is leaving the community.

Charles J. Jakos of the International Brotherhood spoke to the group about progress that is being made with the Hungarian refugees who have settled in Greater Lawrence. The members of the group offered help that their agencies could give in making the group feel more at home and to help them in their adjustment to their new community. The next meeting of the United Fund Executives' Group will be held in September.

Presented Gift

Friday morning, the closing day of the Oranlee school, Principle Joseph Goulet was presented a book of Robert Frost's poems, some golf balls and a golf hat by members of the fifth grade class.

BPW Shut Down Sewer Job Until Clean Up Work Done

Behavior Pattern Of Pond Shown In BPW Report

Here's the way Haggett's Pond has behaved since last August, when the level was 41 inches below normal (the same level as it was Monday):

Aug. 30, 1956 - down 41 inches;
Nov. 12-19, 1956 - down 53 inches;

Dec., 1956 - down 51.5 inches;
January, 1957 - down 46 inches;

April 5, 1957 - 31.5; April 11, 27 inches down; April 18, 26 inches down; April 27, 26.6 inches down;

May 10, 1957 - 31.5 inches below; May 12 and 18, 30 inches down; May 30, 32 inches below;

June showed a continuing drop, with the measure June 13 showing the level to be 38 inches below normal. Another three inches was added over the weekend until late Monday afternoon, bringing it to 41 inches below normal.

Although the pond dropped to more than 70 inches below normal several years ago, in October, officials said they believe the pond was higher in June that year than in 1957.

Year By Year

Figures prepared by the Water Department for the past five years show June 30 levels and the inches dropped in July.

In 1952, 20.5 inches low on June 30, July dropage, 20.6 inches, for a July 31 low of 41 inches (the same as the current figure, only happening six weeks later in the summer season).

In 1953, June 30, 27.5 inches down, drop of 13 in July for total of 40.5 inches below normal on July 31.

In 1954, the pond was only 10 inches down on June 30 and dropped 17 inches in July for a 17 inch total.

During 1955, the pond hit 21 inches below par on June 30, dropped 14 more in July for a total of 35 inches.

And in 1956, the pond was 15 inches down on June 30, was lowered another 9 and wound up July 31 at 24 inches below normal.

Domestic Uses
Officials hasten to point out, despite the obvious emergency nature of the present restrictions, that there presumably will be sufficient water for domestic use. They see no real possibility that the pond would get so low that any danger would actually exist that water would not be available for home use. But they have explained many times that such severe conditions this year, if allowed to continue unchecked, could produce far worse problems in 1958. For if the pond did not recover through the winter, the town would start off next spring with a lower pond level than this year.

It is hoped in official quarters that a source of more water will be located during the test well program and that a permanent source can be established and put into use in time to avoid the possible 1958 emergency.

Playgrounds Open June 24

The Andover Playgrounds will open for the season next Monday, June 24, and will be open Mondays through Friday from 9 till 12 and from 2 to 5. The playgrounds include Central, Ballardvale, Shawsheen, Indian Ridge and North District.

On the Playground staff is George Snyder, director; Paul Gallant, Clifford Lawrence, Anne Marie Walsh, Gail Griffin, Dorothy Walsh, Carlene Erickson, Rita Esile, Mrs. Geraldine Wrigley, Carol Emerich, Rosalie Milne, Janet Skulski, Elinor Warshaw and Emily Owens.

The will of Charles T. Dole has been approved in Probate Court in Salem. Listing Charles M. Dole Sr. of Greenwich, Conn. and Dorothy C. O'Brien of this town as co-executors, the will disposed of an estate estimated at $82,550.

Pittsburgh Wallhide Rubberized Wall Paint and Satinhide Enamel

The perfect pair for interior finishes. Easy to apply and so washable. Needs no primer, and fast drying. No drip and no run. Unusual coverage, a spread far greater than for other types of wall paint.

The Board of Public Works shut down the Andover st. sewer job, effective Tuesday morning.

The Board instructed Assistant Engineer Donald Bassett to stop the work until the contractor cleaned up the lawns, the sidewalks, portion of the street already excavated and brought the street back to proper grade.

Officials expected, however, that the work would be done by this morning, allowing the contractor to resume installation of the sewer pipe.

He had agreed, at a BPW meeting June 10, to do this work immediately. But Board members reported little progress in getting the gravel and sand off private lawns and towards putting the street in usable condition.

BPW Chairman Allan Flye warned his board that three law suits are pending against the contractor for damage to private property. One resident called Flye and started discussing a suit against the town but was informed that the contractor is bonded and assumes any liability.

It was reported Monday night that several youths were working with shovels at the task of clearing away the debris. But Board members felt it would take a long time at that rate.

Residents of the section have complained repeatedly about the condition of the road, excavated material piled on their lawns, a deep trench left open for many feet over weekends and dangerous conditions generally for small children in the area.

The BPW has warned George

Kelley, the Lowell contractor, that he should clear away the sand and make the street passable for vehicles.

By Monday night's action, the Board required Kelley to quit laying sewer pipe until the work is done to the Board's satisfaction. Several members expressed the thought that it better be done now, because only a couple of days work remains on the actual installation work.

Member Francis Reilly reminded his members that he told the contractor the Board "would show you no mercy", because of a bad experience in the Vale when the other sewer line was laid.
